The Daily Freeman.

VOL. 1. CITY OF KINGSTON, (RONDOUT,) N. Y., THURSDAY, AUGUST 1, 1872. NO. 244.

THE DAILY FREEMAN,

PUBLISHED EVERY MORNING,
Sundays excepted,
BY HORATIO FOWKS,
at the
Newkirk Building, Division St.,
City of Kingston, (Rondout, N. Y.)

The DAILY FREEMAN will be an Independent Republican Journal, with an opinion on every subject, firm in its advocacy of freedom, equal rights and just laws for all men; outspoken in its opposition to the abuses and the follies of the day, in favor of progress and improvement everywhere, and especially devoted to the interests of the City of Kingston and vicinity.

The Telegraphic News Department will be complete and well supplied, the FREEMAN being a MEMBER OF THE NEW YORK ASSOCIATED PRESS, through which it receives and is enabled to present a full summary of intelligence from all parts of the world every morning.

Local News and especially City, Town and County News will receive special attention, paid correspondents being employed in all parts of the county. All news received from other than our regular correspondents will paid for if used. Full reports of all important meetings will be presented, and in every respect the DAILY FREEMAN will be a First-Class Paper and a worthy companion of the WEEKLY FREEMAN.

THE DAILY FREEMAN will furnish for the breakfast table of its patrons the News from All Parts of the World up to 3 o'clock, A. M.

Terms—Six Dollars per year, payable invariably in advance. If collected weekly, Fifteen Cents per week. Single copies four cents.

Advertisements will be displayed as ordered, and charged according to the space occupied, measured in inches down the column.

HORATIO FOWKS,
Editor, Proprietor and Publisher.

THE WEEKLY FREEMAN, a large, well-filled paper, will be sent to subscribers at $2 per annum, payable in advance.

HORATIO FOWKS,
Editor, Proprietor and Publisher.

JOB PRINTING in all its branches Promptly, Cheaply and Neatly Done. By the use of STEAM POWER and a large force we are enabled to turn out work at a rate that distances all competition. We have facilities for printing Law Cases unequalled between New York and Albany.

Holland and the Dutch.

[Correspondence of the World.]

AMSTERDAM, June 25.—Although it is said Voltaire, on leaving Holland, gave expression to the biting sarcasm of

"Adieu! canaux, canards, canaille!"

I cannot help believing that the gifted but cynical French poet chose rather to utter a clever sentence than to adhere to the truth in respect to an ingenious and wonderful people. Indeed, I believe Holland to be one of the most interesting countries in the world, whether to the scholar, engineer, farmer or sailor. In this land the very laws of nature seem to be reversed; the sea is higher than the land, the lowest earth is twenty-four feet below high-water mark; the keels of ships float above the chimney-tops; the frogs croaking among the rushes look down upon the swallows in the eaves of houses; rivers take not their course through beds of their own choosing, but through canals regulated by human art. Trees dare not grow in the natural way, but are arranged in fixed and straight lines by the rod and plummet; their branches are not allowed to spread, but are clipped and cut, so that they stand as a spade stuck in the ground with handle downwards. In the suberbs of the great city of Amsterdam (as in all others) the giant arms of windmills stretch out as if they were the ever watchful sentries at the outposts. They are never absent from the landscape; they drain the land, saw timber, crush rape seeds for oil, grind snuff, beat hemp, and thrash grain. The enormous dykes are generally planted with willow trees, so that their interlacing roots may bind the banks, the base of which is faced with masonry and protected by vast heaps of stones. The canals are the roads and drains, the walks and hedges, and although the landscape is generally void of picturesque effects it possesses a quaint interest from the peculiarities mentioned, as well as from the hundreds of fanciful summer-houses or pavillions generally attached to the garden of every prosperous Hollander.

It is but a short distance from Amsterdam to Haarlem, where the famous tulip gardens occupy hundreds of acres. This is a favorite excursion, and a wealth of dazzling flowers can be seen here with which no comparison can be made anywhere else on earth. As far as the vision reaches tulips and hyacintias of the finest varieties grow in the open fields, and present a mass of vivid color dazzling to the eyes. In the days of the tulip mania Beekman states on Dutch authority:

"That the mercantile transactions in these gaudy flowers were carried on in every European market. At one time 400 perits in weight (something less than a grain) of the bulb of a tulip named Admiral Liefken cost 4,400 florins, and 200 perits of another named Semper Augustus, 2,000 florins ($800). Of this last it once happened there were only two roots to be had, the one at Amsterdam, the other at Haarlem, and for one of them was offered 4,600 florins, two gray horses and a complete set of harness, and for the other 12 acres of land."

The Grand Ship Canal of North Holland commences opposite Amsterdam and extends to Helder and the Texel, a distance of fifty-one miles. At the surface it is 124 feet wide, at the bottom 31 feet, and a breadth sufficient to permit two frigates to pass. The locks exceed in dimensions the largest in the Liverpool docks. This great work was finished in six years. Blaken was the engineer. The difficulties which opposed its formation, the ground consisting of low swamps and loose sand, must increase our admiration of the skill and perseverance by which it was planned and executed.

On my way to Broeck I stopped at one of those little dairies where the celebrated Dutch cheese is made. A description may not be appropriate here. The cows were nearly all in the fields, or, I should say, the swamps, surrounding the low brick dwelling on the farm. They were blanketed with great care, as we blanket horses in America, and they finally presented a droll sight. On the housewife being made acquainted with the object of my visit she expressed great willingness to show me over her house. First of all I was shown the "company-rooms" upstairs, where I inspected some miraculous china and brass were ranged upon the spotless wooden mantel. Chairs. In one corner a high-posted bedstead filled an honorable place, stacked nearly to the ceiling with the fattest of feather beds, the finest and finest of linen, and the most extraordinary of hand-worked valences, and largest of all, there was a short ladder at the side to mount into this most sumptuous of couches.

In another part was the ordinary living-room of the family. But I failed to discover any bedsteads here, and I asked the cause of this omission. My bustling hostess quickly unbuttoned a fastening apparently in the wall, which exposed a crib very much like a ship's berth, or cupboard, where the family packed themselves away in winter much like their own herring in boxes, and (for aught I know) remaining there dormant until the spring.

But I was destined to have other surprises. Down stairs I found the whole family assembled in one apartment. This was floored with brick. On a platform raised about a foot from the ground was a cradle (with a little chubby Dutch baby in it), a table at which an old Hollander sat smoking and sipping something which might have been old "Hollands," too; a lusty, rosy-cheeked lass vigorously scrubbing out a plethoric barrel, and right behind her the stall for the cows, and nearly all of them occupied. In fact, this was the stable, where the family nearly always lived. The cows' tails were all drawn up to the ceiling by pulleys, their stalls were paved with white shells, and through the gutters there coursed a pure stream of fresh water, and everything was as clean and inoffensive as possible.

After visiting the rooms where the cheese was being pressed, moulded, and salted for market, I resumed my journey to Broeck, where I arrived in an hour.

This town is justly famous in Europe as a unique specimen of Dutch taste, ingenuity, eccentricity, and is called "the cleanest town in the world." It is built on the boarders of a large lake. Most of its 800 inhabitants are merchants, stock-brokers, underwriters, or tradesmen retired from business. There is neither horse nor cart road through the place, so we had to leave our conveyance outside. It is expressly forbidden to bring any animal into the village, and a sign outside warns all strangers that they cannot smoke in Broeck without stoppers on their pipes.

The narrow lanes intersecting the town are paved with small stones or shells, set in all sorts of fantastic patterns of houses, flowers and birds. The houses are built of wood and generally painted white and green; the roofs glitter in the sun in all the glory of colored tiles glazed in a hundred tints.

The front doors and windows are always closed, save for the entrance of a bridal party, and never reopened except for the exit of a corpse, the side and back doors alone being used for ordinary purposes. In front of almost every cottage we saw woolen shoes, which the inmates had put off to enter the house barefooted, so as not to take in the dirt (rare satire) of the streets.

The Emperor Alexander, it is said, complied with this usage of taking his shoes off during a visit to Broeck. One of the houses shown here contains a visitors' book, and in it are inscribed many royal names, besides autographs of hundreds of the most distinguished men in Europe. However, the house was but an eccentric copy of every Dutch mansion, and as such was curious. I purchased some delph china here. On the heavy plates are many strange mottoes and inscriptions. I copy one. On the front of the plate is written, "Look on the other side." On the reverse, "Pray before you eat."

But I wish to give you a description of the diamond mills of Amsterdam, so I shall hurry back to the city. H. H. L.

The Rice Negro as an Elector.

[From the Correspondence of the Nation.]

The knowledge of an ordinary town negro is limited enough; but it is wisdom compared with his ordinary country cousin. "Cain," said Mr. B. to one of his head-foremen, in a rice-field where upwards of 300 "hands" were at work, "how many of these can read or write?" "Not one, sah," was the reply, "'cep' Jim Crow; him spell um letters berry little." This was true. Out of the whole number, not one could read or write. Their ignorance is dense. I saw but one foreman who could read or write intelligibly. The representative of the district at Columbia was an old family servant of Mr. B.'s, and was taught to read by his mistress, that he might be the better able to follow his vocation as a preacher among his fellow servants. His acquirements were not so great, however, as to prevent his rising in his seat, when an additional tax of several mills on the dollar was under discussion, and declaring that "Massa B. had more mills now on his place than he could use, and he didn't see how any more could be needed.

The power of these (political) associations over the negroes is something amazing. If there is a symptom of rebellion, all the leaders need do is to raise the cry, "You will be put back into slavery," and it is reason enough to look upon any candidate with suspicion for whom their old masters or present employers vote. Their release from slavery is of course attributed to the Republican party, and there seems to be a charm in the name which is perfectly fascinating. "There is Scowling," said Mr. B., pointing to the foreman over a gang of a hundred hands in a rice field; "I consider him one of my most reliable, trustworthy men. He knows me well, and I really think he would do anything I would ask him except vote for me; and if he had his own choice he would do that, but as matters stand now it would be as much as his life is worth to attempt it. He would vote in preference for the veriest rascal in the district—one whom he knew to be such—provided he called himself a Republican. Although I do not know that I have a single personal enemy among them, I could not count on more than eight votes out of all the men I employ." Mr. B. never meddles in politics, and these remarks were made in reply to my question as to what chances he would stand were he to run for office. To the question whether he "knew" General Grant, Scowling replied, "Yes, sah, I vote f'r um." "And you knew Mr. Lincoln?" "Fader Abrum! Ah, yes, sah." "And Mr. Charles Sumner?" "No, sah, nebber heered o' that gemman." "But you know Mr. Greeley?" "No, massa, I nebber did." Concerning the two latter I tried to aid his memory, but it was useless—he had "nebber heered," he said, and I could not find a single man who had. I will venture to say that his case is identical with that of four-fifths of his race in his State. Scowling struck the key-note.—"Scowling," said Mr. B. "just suppose I was running for the office Robert holds at Columbia, and a Republican ran against me. Suppose you knew he would lie and steal whatever he could—which would you vote for?"—He tried to evade the point, but upon Mr. B.'s exhorting him "to tell the truth," he said, "You knows berry well, Massa B., I hasn't no b'jections to voting for you, but de rest wouldn't let me. I must vote de 'Publican ticket. Dat's de trub, sah." The same questions put a score of times, both in Mr. B.'s absence and in his presence, elicited a like reply.

A Pathetic Burial by the Sea.

Colonel George Ward Nicholas, author of that excellent war book, "The Story of the Great March," contributes to the August number of Harper's a sketch of Mount Desert, in which there is this striking passage:

In the lives of these simple-hearted fishermen, isolated from the world and separated far from each other, there are episodes full of the deepest pathos.

One morning, late in the year, when the chill Eastern wind had brought in from the ocean drifting banks of fog, with now and then blinding sheets of rain, on the edge of a dreary stretch of marsh-land by the sea, we came upon a freshly dug grave. Two or three headstones to other graves near by told us that this was no public cemetery, and only a secluded corner used by its owner to make such interment as best he could. All by itself, it was a sad picture, and little but this waste of sand and marsh could be seen, for the gathering mists inwrapped the mountain and the sea in a ghostly shroud; yet it was not complete, for out of the dim distance there came two figures bearing a small coffin between them, which they placed by the side of the grave. The bearers were two men, whose tanned and wrinkled faces bore evidence of life-long exposure to wind and sun and rain; their oil-cloth caps and hats were dripping with water, while about their rough top-boots hung the long grass and kelp cast up by the waves on the rocks and beach. The poor pine coffin, too, bore like evidence of exposure, for water ran from its sides, and the sand gathered about the bottom showed that the men must have rested in their toilsome journey. We saw all of this at a glance, and then looked in the direction from whence they came, expecting to see other forms, and those of women, approaching, but the flying mists, unbroken, shut closer in about us. The solitary mourners recognized our presence by bowing. There was no service of the Church, no audible word of prayer was said, and no sound was heard, save that eternal requiem of the restless sea, while the body was consigned to its last resting-place. And then, perhaps, it was the sight of tears which came fast flowing from our eyes which unsealed the closely compressed lips of the elder of the two men.

"She was the last one who came to me," he said, tremblingly. "And afore now I have thought she was the prettiest of 'em all. There they are, sir, all of 'em, wife and children, in the ground; and I'm all alone." The great grief of the old man stopped his speech, and answering the warm pressure of sympathizing hands, not daring again to look at the graves of all he had held most dear, he turned his steps by the way he came, and, with his companion, was soon lost to view. We shall never forget that pathetic burial by the sea.

Sewing Machines.
The hurly-burly of the Sewing-Machine war is ended. Various manufacturers have paraded their machines before the public, with a great flourish of trumpets and waving of banners. In their eagerness to effect sales, the different agents resorted to all sorts of trickery to trap the unwary, and hundreds of farmers' wives, and farmers themselves, in this county, had forced upon them worthless machines in an unguarded moment. You, who have not yet made up your minds which to buy of the many machines offered, we advise to carefully examine into the merits of the "Domestic." Independent of its many good qualities, (and we believe it to be the best in the world) it is in the hands of a gentleman here, well known to thousands of our readers, who would not knowingly make false representations.—We feel justified in saying that we believe A. Goodrich fully satisfied himself, before taking the agency of the "Domestic," that it was perfect in all its parts, and that he could unhesitatingly recommend it to all.

THE DAILY FREEMAN.

CITY OF KINGSTON, (RONDOUT.)

THURSDAY MORNING, AUGUST 1, 1872.

Sumner Speaks.

The letter of the colored men to Senator Sumner has brought out a grand reply from the chief champion of that race, which erst bound in the shackles of slavery now enjoys freedom. Naturally Senator Sumner, being appealed to for advice, speaks to these colored men as a special friend of the race. For them he has suffered, for them he has been ridiculed and abused, and to them he has been faithful from first to last.

And in his estimate of Grant it is natural that he should examine Grant's record as a friend of the colored race. It proves, as has been apparent to many Republicans for some time, that Grant didn't care a snap for the colored race. So long as he got their votes he was content; but no word or act of his, save what happened in the line of his military duty, can be named on the side of that race. His attempt to crush out the free republic of Hayti, to which President Lincoln was specially friendly, being the first to recognize it, can be attributed to nothing but enmity. On the other hand Mr. Sumner says Horace Greeley has been the friend of that race for a generation, and it is idle to talk about his abandoning the cause of the blacks.

Mr. Sumner says he will vote for Greeley as a Republican, and not as a Democrat, and that he is no more a Democrat because he is supported by Democrats than was Sumner himself less a Republican because he was elected by Free Soilers and Democrats. No one questions that Sumner has been a faithful Republican, yet he was elected in just the way that Greeley will be. And Mr. Sumner expresses what a vast number of Republicans feel, when he says "I am so much of a Republican that I wish to see in the Presidential chair a lifetime Abolitionist."

In regard to the organization of the administration he says—"If Democrats are taken it will be as Republicans in heart, recognizing the associate terms of settlement as an irreversible finality."

Sumner ends with pronouncing himself for reconciliation, and with a word of advice to the colored race.—As its special and devoted champion he is entitled to speak, and he tells them what every good, old-time friend of it must feel, that it is not best for them to organize in hostile masses, keeping alive the separation of the races. The true policy of colored men should be to make friends of both parties, that it may not be the interest of any to attack them. Let the colored men heed the advice of the best and truest friend they have ever had.

State Rights.

When the war closed it was necessary to make special laws to protect Southern society from the depredations and tyranny of bands, such as exist in all countries when revolution has left them without organized governments. The Southern states were in this predicament. They had no laws or officers to enforce order. The Government stepped in, as it was its duty bound to do, to reorganize society and reconstruct states. In doing this Congress did not assume any of the reserved rights of states, but only provided that they could exercise the franchises, rights and immunities belonging to them of right and by the constitution. This done, the duty of the general government ceased.

Owing to the anomalous state of society in the South, and partly to a desire for power on both sides, the reconstruction of the rebel states was delayed and their special laws had to be continued from time to time, but now every state has taken her place in the Union, perfectly organized and able to preserve order and maintain justice. By every pledge made by the Republican party during the war, we are now bound to repeal special enactments made for abnormal irregularities and to abolish martial law.—This the Cincinnati platform commits us to see done, and Horace Greeley pledges himself to do.

Liberal Republicans are sometimes told they are inconsistent in joining with Democrats, because they are opposed to state rights. If state rights means secession they are and ever will be opposed to it, and so are the Democracy. The South believed to the contrary, but the tribunal of lead, powder, sword and the drum-head settled that against them. The right of secession was buried in the battle field. On the other hand the state rights which means just what the state of New York now enjoys, we support and uphold. Here we erect towns, from cities, administer justice, keep order by virtue of the constitution of the state. Such state rights we will ever defend and uphold.—More, we as Liberal Republicans and Democrats, unite to guarantee these to other states. To accomplish this we mean to elect Horace Greeley.

The North Carolina Election.

The election in North Carolina today threatens to cause serious riots in that state, which may end in shedding blood. The New York Times, of yesterday, predicts trouble in a hundred places, and talks loudly of intimidation of the blacks, but at the same time tells how the colored people chased a white man to the woods. Other advices confirm the indications of riots. This is to be deplored, for the innocent must suffer with the guilty. The blame, however, will lie mainly on those who are arraying the blacks against the whites for the sake of power. They tell these ignorant classes all sorts of tough stories to excite their fears, and these move them into excesses which no civilized society will tolerate.

It is idle to speculate on the result, as in a few hours the telegraph will inform the whole country. Both sides talk confidently, but we think the chances are in favor of the Carpet Bag candidate. If it is, it will give new vigor to the campaign; if otherwise, Greeley will walk over the field.

Poor Writing.

Among the most difficult ideas to learn to shoot are those which concentrate in the art of writing. We do not mean the expression of thought or fancy, but the formation of the characters which placed on paper convey meaning to others. It is very important that we all learn to write well.

Probably but few of our youngsters who twist their necks and run out their tongues in painful endeavor to follow the winding course of the pen, ever expect to reach greatness, either by working it out themselves or having it thrust upon them. But such is the risk every mother's son of them runs. We only urge that they should be prepared for their possible destiny.

Our great men have frequently to express themselves in writing, and once down and in print people call it their record and quote it for or against them. But some of them write horridly. Here is our good friend Greeley has got into a scrape by poor writing. In a letter to one Carmichael he said, "Judge Chase's nomination would have done much to heal the wound opened by the war;" but he wrote so badly that Carpenter read it —"I am in favor of healing all wounds growing out of the late war," which Mr. Carpenter swore was the same as pensioning the rebel soldiers; and all the Grant men have proclaimed it broadcast that Horace wants to pension the rebels. How much he would have saved if he had minded his p's and q's at writing-school. It is a sad warning to all young people and to all possible candidates. Had Horace Greeley never learned to write, or been taught to make better letters, he would not now in his old age be accused of wanting to pension rebels or burn Northern cities.

POLITICAL NOTES.

Wm. E. Goodrich has declared for Greeley.

The Boston Post says Gen. Banks expressed emphatically his belief on the 17th that Greeley would be elected President.

Daniel W. Greenway, of Poughkeepsie, who has been announced as "on the fence," proclaims himself a Greeley man, and has been such from the start.

The Hudson Register says the editor of the Star signed a call for a Greeley and Brown meeting, and then went and begged the printer to erase his name off when publishing it. For which the Register goes for him.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Georgia scalawags attempt to pass themselves off as brothers-in-law of the President.

A Pittston editor has been fined for fast driving over a bridge. No business to own such a hoss.

The Cincinnati boy who threw a bunch of fire crackers into the cornet of one of Tony Pastor's horn-blowers produced a staccato passage which the player couldn't find in his notes.

A Utica girl at the proper hour pulls a string which reverses a picture, on the back of which appear in huge characters the words, "Ten o'clock in my bed-time," and her admirers take the gentle hint and depart.

The Newburgh papers are talking it out over a "hoss" case. The Journal says McNally, of the Telegraph, dissatisfied with the judges' decision against his horse at the Goshen races, has appealed, which McNally denies, and the two papers are having a high old time.

MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS.

Fifty million postal cards will be required for 1872.

President Grant's coachmen are dressed in white flannel livery.

Three by five inches is the size chosen for the new postal cards.

BARNARD IMPEACHMENT TRIAL.

SARATOGA, July 31.

Thomas H. Scanlon, sworn—Was employed as detective in the latter part of March, 1869, by Allan Pinkerton; was directed to shadow Barnard, and did so; other officers were so employed at the time; in April I knew where Josephine Mansfield lived, it was at 12 West 24th street: I saw Judge Barnard once enter that house at 7 or 8 o'clock P. M.; I knew James Fisk, Jr., at the time; did not see him frequent that house at that time; I was part of the time employed by Fisk; can't say how long Barnard remained in the house, not long.

The Chair said he regarded the evidence as incompetent and there was no such allegation in the articles of impeachment.

Parsons claimed it was part of the charge that he administered justice partially. The point was argued at length. The Chair then submitted the question to the Court whether the evidence should be received, and it was rejected; yeas 16, nays 21.

Witness stated he had refused to come on a telegram, and was then brought here by a subpœna. Beach objected to witness being allowed to make any statements of this character on the witness stand; that he was asked for no such information. Witness arose and left the stand while Beach was speaking. The Chair said there was no objection to witness making a statement of that sort.

Parsons said the case of the managers stood thus: "That there remains the testimony of General Blair in relation to the Erie Railway cases. No testimony had been taken on the 31st article relative to excessive allowance. As Mansfield Comerton persists in refusing to appear as a witness, some testimony in the Susquehanna case and the testimony of one or two other witnesses was to come, and with these exceptions the prosecution would rest their case with the understanding that this testimony could be introduced hereafter."

Beach responded that defendant would prefer to have the testimony all in before he commenced his case.

Parsons stated what was to be shown, and which was simply in addition to testimony already taken, except as to the 36th article which charges Judge Barnard with conducting himself in such a manner as to destroy confidence in his Court.

Beach still objected, as it put defendant to great disadvantage. The Chair put the question to the Court "whether evidence should be taken hereafter on other articles than the 36th article," and it was determined in the affirmative unanimously.

Judge Grover suggested that the vote be taken under the 36th article, relative to indecorum and the undignified conduct of Judge Barnard. The Chair asked counsel what they proposed to show under that article.

Van Cott responded that among other things they proposed to show that the conduct of Judge Barnard was such that Von Hoffman the agent holding Erie stock for foreign owners, became so greatly alarmed for the safety of the stock, that he sent it to England unregistered; and other similar incidents which showed how far confidence in the administration of justice in this Court was impaired. Counsel pursued this theme at some length.

The Chair said it seemed to him at legitimate evidence; it was going too far to admit these general inferences from the action of the respondents; the Court had admitted the evidence on the immediate effect of his action, that he thought it was sufficient. He would, however, take a vote if the Court so desired.

Van Cott said counsel for the prosecution would not ask for a decision of the Court, but would accept that of the Chief Justice.

The Chair then said the decision of the Court would be that no evidence under the 36th article would be received.

Beach said that Counsel for respondent had had under consideration the question of opening their case, but had concluded to forego occupying the time of the Court in that way; but they did desire an opportunity for consultation, and as the hour for adjournment had nearly arrived he would ask that indulgence; which was granted, and the Court adjourned.

METROPOLITAN NEWS.

NEW YORK, July 31.

The international exposition has opened at Lima.

The Frigates Saranac and California were at Panama.

The third annual convention of the German American school teachers begun at Hoboken to-day, Philip G. Kland presiding.

Aspinwall dates to the 21st state that the agent at Costa Rica left for the United States to purchase a man of war to be stationed at Punto Arenas.

The Board of State Commissioners of Public Charities and Correction met to-day at the House of Refuge, Randall's Island, to investigate the charges of cruelty and mismanagement in reference to that Institution and its administration. The Board continued the investigation of the first specification, "that the managers neglect to furnish the inmates with good wholesome food in sufficient quantities for proper nourishment."

The frigate Wyoming was at Aspinwall on the 21st instant in charge of the steamer Edgar Stewart. Capt. Pennell of the latter has been arrested by the authorities at Aspinwall, but was soon released. Consul Dill has received instructions from the American State Department, approving his action in detaining the Edgar Stewart, but condemning the action of Capt. Pennell of the latter, for not obeying the orders of the attorney of the owners; and Consul Dill is still authorized to grant a clearance to the Stewart direct to New York where her owner resides, when said owner sends a new captain to command her.

MOVEMENTS OF THE PRESIDENT.

UTICA, July 31.

President Grant and wife were to-day the guests of Senator Samuel Campbell at New York Mills. They were received by citizens of the village with an enthusiastic orator.—The Veterans of the village were presented and delivered an address of welcome through Chaplain Harvey of the sixty-second New York volunteers.

In the evening the President was received by citizens of Utica in the Opera House and was introduced to them by Senator Conkling.

THE FAREWELL VISIT OF SPOTTED TAIL.

WASHINGTON, July 31.

Spotted Tail and party paid a farewell visit to the Interior Department to-day. Commissioner Walker made a few remarks assuring them the Great Father was pleased with the arrangements to which they consented, and they could rely upon the performance of all that had been promised.

Spotted Tail said he would tell his people all he had seen and heard during his visit; he would have to hunt this fall, and wanted a little money to buy presents for families, and to have the goods distributed twice instead of once a year.

Gen. Walker agreed to commence such distribution as soon as the Indians were permanently located so that a good warehouse could be built, and to allow each delegation a small sum to buy presents. As to hunting, they will have to await the permission of the Great Father. The Indians subsequently bid the Commissioner and Secretary Delano good bye. They leave to-morrow for a visit to Philadelphia and New York and then return to the reservation.

APOLLO HALL DEMOCRACY.

NEW YORK, July 31.

An exciting meeting of the Apollo Hall Democracy was held to-night. Wm. H. Wickham, chairman, attempted to read a communication from Tammany Hall inviting the Apollo Hall organization to join in a mass meeting to endorse the Baltimore nominations. Senator James O'Brien moved the communication be laid on the table. His motion was received with tremendous cheers. Peter Mitchell, Connor Flynn, Judge Spalding, Henry Murray and others of the Executive Committee sustained the motion of O'Brien, who charged Wickham with being in a secret treaty to sell the organization to Tammany Hall. For a long time Wickham persisted in attempting to read the communication, but O'Brien's motion was carried. Wickham denied the allegation of O'Brien's, and announced his Wickham's withdrawal from the Apollo Hall Democracy.

NATIONAL CAPITAL.

WASHINGTON, July 31.

The Treasury department has instructed the collector at New York to hereafter exact a duty at the rate of fifty per cent. advance on silk crapes, instead of sixty, as heretofore enacted. There has been a large number of appeals upon this question, and the case has been twice tried before the courts, resulting in one instance in a disagreement of the jury, and in the other in a verdict against the government.

The debt statement to be issued to-morrow, will, it is understood, show a comparatively very low reduction in consequence of small receipts and extraordinarily large expenditures of the month. The officials who have the preparation of the debt statement in charge however, say it is impossible to judge at present what the reductions will be, as the returns will not be complete until to-morrow.

THE POPE COUNTY TROUBLES.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. July 31.

The Governor issued a proclamation threatening to declare martial law in Pope County. He referred to the appearance in Court there of the prisoners and their friends fully armed, interfering with the course of justice, and to the reports that the citizens of Pope County are now in arms determined to resist the authority of the law, and the officers. He says he does not desire to place that county under martial law, but the laws must be enforced, respected and obeyed, and if necessary the entire force of the State would be employed for that purpose.

DISCOVERY OF DEPOSITS OF DIAMONDS AND RUBIES.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 31.

The reported agent dispatched by Harpending and others from San Francisco to the country bordering on Arizona and New Mexico in search of deposits of diamonds and rubies reported years ago by Kit Carson's party, has found the deposits and brought back with him a hundred thousand dollars worth. Steps will be taken to secure a government patent on the lands, and a company will be formed with a large capital to work them.

Professor D. C. Gilmor of Yale college has been elected president of the University of California.

GEN. KILPATRICK SUES THE NEW YORK TIMES FOR LIBEL.

NEW YORK, July 31.

At the tombs police court to-day, Gen. Kilpatrick of Pennsylvania entered a complaint for libel against Louis J. Jennings of the New York Times. The alleged libel is contained in an article in the Times of Saturday last. Justice Hogan refused to grant the warrant for Jenning's arrest, but sent him notification to appear at 11 o'clock to-morrow to answer to the charge preferred.

Narrow Gauge Lines for Military Purposes.

The London Times describes a novel and experimental railway which has just been constructed at Aldershott Camp. It is of eighteen inch guage, and upon the "suspension" principle, patented by Mr. J. B. Fell. It is to be worked by a locomotive engine specially designed and built by Messrs. Manning, Wardle & Co., of the Engine Works, Leeds. It is to meet military as well as other requirements that the "Narrow Guage Suspension Railway" has been introduced. It can be made and worked at a much less cost than any other form of railway, and is capable of carrying the whole of the traffic of branch or mineral lines. The whole railway consists of a continuous structure, formed of wood or iron: a single row of pillars stand at regular intervals along the line, the lower ends of the pillars rest upon wood sleepers, and are steadied by transverse diagonal struts; holes are dug in the ground, the pillars placed in position, and the earth well rammed down. The length of the pillars varies according to the contour of the ground, for their upper ends must range with each other, so as to carry the superstructure; this is formed by two longitudinal beams of wood (or iron) placed side by side, with a space between them, bolted to, strutted from, and supported by the pillars. The railway will thus be sometimes only 3 feet above the surface, while in crossing valleys or ravines it may be from 20 feet to 30 feet high from the ground, and it may have curves or gradients on any other railway. These longitudinal beams form continuous "sleepers," and carry four rails; two on their upper surfaces, and two on their outer sides; the surface rails are of iron, these carry the train, and may be of any desired gauge from eight inches to eighteen inches; the side rails are of wood (or iron) nailed along near the lower edge of the beams, so as to be below the level of the carrying rails. They are peculiar to this system, and act as "guides" for the horizontal wheels of the wagons and carriages. Where sidings occur, or shunting is required, the switches are formed by making a twenty foot length of the railway to pivot on one end, while the other end, resting on a pair of rollers, travels from the main line to and from the siding. The carriages are suspended below the axles, by which arrangement the centre of gravity is brought very low, and they are furnished with horizontal wheels running against the "guide" rails above described, whereby the equilibrium of the carriage is maintained, and it is rendered almost impossible for it to leave the rails. A committee of Royal Engineers having been appointed by the War Office to investigate the system, reported so favorably that an experimental locomotive line of eighteen inches gauge, about one mile in length, has been made at Aldershott Camp. All the details appear to have been carefully considered, and if the result is as satisfactory as anticipated it is intended to make several miles of this railway in and about the camps at Aldershott, and in leisure times the soldiers will be exercised in taking down and putting it up again for military transport service.

A Profitable Crop.

The culture is made from about nine acres of land, cultivated in three sections by three owners. Of this land about three acres bore its first crop, and a little more than three acres yielded its second crop, and the remainder of the nine acres its third crop. The entire crop amounted to 27,785 quarts or about 865 bushels, a yield equal to 96 bushels per acre. Considering how unfavorable the season has been, this crop cannot be called a first rate one.—The cost of cultivation was about as follows:

Team work and labor,	$675 86
Manures,	300 00
Hay and straw for mulching,	300 00
Interest on capital and tax,	109 00
Picking and marketing,	682 04
Freight traveling, &c.,	400 50
Commission,	200 75
Team work,	50 00
Wear of crates and baskets,	160 00
Total cost of crop,	$2,818 15
Crop 27,786 quarts of berries at an average of 22 cents,	$6,112 92
Deduct expenses,	2,818 15
Profit,	$3,294 77

CORNS are as useless to the community as mischief-making old maids, corner loafers in large cities, or dishonest politicians, no more of a luxury than epsom salts or castor oil, and no more desirable for comfort than a hedge hog is for a parlor ornament. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies, Alleviator and Curative, eradicates corns, vanishes bunions, and cures ingrowing nails, sore insteps, and other obnoxious torments of feet.—Sold by Van Deusen Brothers, R. Deyo and others.

LISTEN. What do you hear? A cough?—What does it indicate? Perhaps a tickle in the throat; perhaps bronchitis; it may be a recent cold; it may be an effort of nature to clear the bronchia; it may be the deep hollow cough, boon companion of that terrible monster consumption.—In either case the free use of Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer, as directed, will banish all kinds of Cough, cure Bronchitis certain, and all the early symptoms of Consumption. Sold by Van Deusen Brothers, R. Deyo and others.

$1000 Reward for an incurable case Catarrh. After having suffered, deluged, gargled, hawked, spit and gagged to your entire satisfaction in useless endeavors to get relief from Catarrh, use Briggs' Allevantor, according to directions. The filthy mass of mucous will be immediately expelled, the inflamed surface soothed, the eyes sparkle with delight, the head feels natural again; hope revives, for a cure is sure to follow the use of this agreeable, scientific and reliable remedy. Sold by Van Deusen Bros., R. Deyo and others.

CORNS Let them ache, cut your boots, curse them and make up your mind that you can endure their torments as long as they can torment you, but take the advice of an old chap who has tried it, but got worsted by the corns. They are worse than a coon in a barrel; never surrender, but fight it out on that line summer and winter. Corns, bunions, ingrowing nails and other such pleasant little pets, are gathered into the relief kitchen, by using Briggs' corn and bunion remedies, Alleviator and Curative. Sold by Van Deusen Bros., R. Deyo and others.

PILES It is a simple word, but carries terror to the hearts of those who have dragged out a miserable existence for days, weeks, months or years, and who can describe their sufferings only by saying, "Life has no pleasure for me; if I were only out of my misery, what a blessing it would be." Let such sufferers cheer up, the messenger of peace is on the swing. Briggs' Pile Remedies have come—try them. They are to those afflicted with internal, bleeding, external and itching piles, indeed a blessing. Sold by Van Deusen Bros., R. Deyo and others.

CORNS, Bunions, Toe Nails, Tender Feet, &c., also Piles, Cancerous and Scrofulous Humors, Skin Diseases, &c., skillfully and successfully treated by DR. J. BRIGGS & CO., at the Great Central Healing and Chiropodical Institute, No. 697 Broadway, N. Y. Open day and evening. 1yd225 1y 689.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS.

Sealed proposals will be received until Saturday August 3d, 1872, at the office of Thomas H. Tremper, for the grading of the roadway of Elmendorf street from Union avenue to Smith avenue according to the ordinance adopted by the Common Council May 31st, 1872.

Also for the grading to the full width of Adams and Pierpont streets and top-dressing the roadway of said streets according to the ordinances adopted by the Common Council July 15th, 1872.

Also for building a retaining wall on Piermont street adjoining the property of Geo. C. Woolsey.

The Superintendent of streets, sewers and city property will be present at Elmendorf street on Tuesday, July 30th, at 9 o'clock, A. M., and at Pierpont and Adams streets on Wednesday, July 31st, at 9 o'clock, A. M., for the purpose of furnishing necessary information in regard to the work to be done.

Bids must state the price per yard for excavating, or price per lineal foot for either street when completed, or for total amount for work on each street, and per cubic yard for retaining wall.

The city reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

By order of the Common Council,
JOHN DERRENBACHER,
GEORGE BUG,
THOS. H. TREMPER,
PALMER J. GURNEE,
24014 Committee.

THE LAUNDRY

Is in successful operation. A slate is at Crosby & Co.'s Hardware Store. The wagon will call every morning at 9 o'clock and at the Kingston Post Office every noon. Prices same as Mr. Proper's.

Coal Arrival.

On Wednesday 57 canal boats laden with 7,225 tons of coal reached tide water at Eddyville through the Delaware and Hudson canal.

Personal.

Mr. John R. Stebbins and wife, formerly of this city but for some years past residents of Memphis, Tenn., are visiting relatives in this city. Mr. Stebbins is engaged in business as an insurance agent in the South, where, we are told, he has an extensive and lucrative business connection.

A Pastoral Call.

At a congregational meeting of the congregation of the First Presbyterian Church, upper Kingston, held the 30th instant, it was decided to extend a call to the Rev. Samuel Perry, of Clinton, N. J. Messrs. A. H. Decker, A. T. Clearwater and A. H. Van Steenburgh were appointed commissioners to present the call at the next meeting of the Presbytery in November.

Wouldn't Stand It.

An unmarried gentleman of wealth of Upper Kingston, whose proclivities toward the gentle sex are well known and often spoken of in that place, is at present in a sad state of anxiety because one of the weaker vessels seems to have taken it into her head to appropriate him solely to herself. The public therefore were treated to the sensation of having a female hurrying to and fro the other day, inquiring in an excited manner "who that woman was Mr. ——had gone riding with;" declaring that "Mr. —— must stop that, or she would see about it."

Freak of a Dog.

The other morning a lady of Upper Kingston called at Valentine's nursery, and let her baby sit on the grass while she examined the plants. The dog of Valentine came to the child and placed himself as sentinel over it, and would allow no one to approach, not even the mother herself. Valentine was absent, so they had to wait until he returned. When he came he tried to coax the dog away, and finally tried to force him to leave, but the dog showed fight even to his master. Several men were then called, who with clubs finally mastered the brute and tied him up. The dog did not offer to injure the child, and it is hard to tell what notion got into his head.

Kerosene Accident.

On Wednesday afternoon Albert Lewis, a young lad employed on the Del. & Hud. canal boat 853, went to light a fire in the stove which was in the cabin. The kindling wood being somewhat damp from the rain and not igniting with sufficient rapidity the boy poured kerosene oil upon it with the usual result—an explosion. The stove was shattered, the boy horribly burned from his thighs to his feet, and by severe exertions on the part of the crew the boat was saved from being destroyed by fire. The force of the explosion was so great as to blow the spout and bottom from the oil-can, and the veneering from a looking-glass frame hanging in the cabin was completely blown off.

Careless.

Last Wednesday Thomas Hall, who resides in Fair street, upper Kingston, piled in front of his premises, on the wagon track, a large pile of rubbish. At night Degraff, from Rosendale, came driving up the street with a horse and wagon containing himself and a gentleman friend, and not seeing the obstruction, drove over it. The wagon was turned upside down and the occupants spilled, while the horse fell into the gutter. Fortunately no one was badly hurt, so they scrambled up and went on. If people will stack the refuse of their back yards in the street, they should at least be compelled to place a light over them, or to pay a penalty for endangering the lives of those who may be driving on our thoroughfares.

The Rival Busses.

The strife between the upper Kingston hotel keepers at the landing of the Mary Powell evenings is very amusing to an outsider, but it must be a nuisance to travelers. The proprietor of the City Hotel, and that of the Eagle, attend personally at the landing, and it is one continual hot argument between them, from the time they arrive with their omnibusses, until the boat comes in. The City Hotel proprietor says the Eagle runs his buss "catie corner," thus getting somewhere about an inch or two nearer the dock than the other buss. The Eagle proprietor denies this, and hotly declares the City buss the night before was backed 3-4 of an inch nearer the dock than the Eagle, thereby gaining an advantage of one passenger, and almost half of another. Wednesday night L. B. Van Wagoner acted as referee to decide the dispute, and drew a line along the dock over which each proprietor agreed not to cross. However, when the boat arrived the horses most unaccountably took to backing and went over the line in spite of their drivers. As soon as the plank has been laid, the runners establish themselves on either side of the gangway, and the passengers are tugged, first one way and then another, there generally being a runner of the City Hotel hanging on one arm, and a runner of the Eagle pulling at the other. The proprietor of one hotel stands in front of the victim, and shouts in his left ear, "City Hotel," while the other proprietor brings up the rear and yells in his right ear, "Eagle." Carpet-bags and umbrellas sway to and fro, until finally the unhappy mortal, unable to decide, is picked up bodily and boosted in one of the busses, his arms nearly torn from their sockets. A yell of triumph then goes up from the party who wins, when they immediately rush for another victim, who goes through the inquisition in like manner. Sometimes, however, they get hold of an old traveler who bats them right and left with a hearty good will, and then there is much merriment over the discomfiture of the runners. Take it all in all it is very funny, and makes the Powell dock extremely lively these pleasant nights.

CITY NOTES.

The Common Council is said to be all for Greeley, except one Alderman for Grant, and one on the fence.

A reward of five cents is offered for the conviction of the party who puts counterfeit fifty-cent bills on the church plates.

On Wednesday there were but four sail vessels lading coal at the Company's docks—but there were "heaps" of boats and barges taking in "the black diamonds."

In giving a list of the officers of the Grant & Wilson Club in the eastern portion of the city, the name of Henry M. Crane, Treasurer, was unintentionally omitted.

The Prince of Wales gave a grand "garden party" at Chiswick on Tuesday afternoon last, and among the noted guests present was Captain Robert W. Shufeldt, U. S. Navy, son of George A. Shufeldt, Esq., of this city.

A band of street musicians on Wednesday delighted their listeners by their fine rendering of Abts' immortal "When the Swallows Homeward Fly," "The Star-Spangled Banner," and other airs. Their playing was superb.

The Sunday School from Newburgh, which visited Mr. Crane's fine grove on Tuesday, gave that gentleman a very fine serenade on leaving. The voices of the children and the music of the band mingled very harmoniously.

The new screw steamer Coe F. Young, Captain Charles Warner, of Cornell's line, arrived at this port on Wednesday morning from Troy. A small party went on a short trial trip with the Young, during which she performed to the entire satisfacton of those concerned.

Our Aldermen have adjourned for two weeks. They propose to take a vacation, and if any neighboring burgh has a spare commons or park in which our colts can pull off their shoes and kick up their heels for a brief spell, it will please enclose it in a letter and direct it to the city of Kingston, postage paid, for this is a Reform Board.

A lot of young scamps amused themselves on Wednesday afternoon by knocking down the swallows which were flying low through Division street. A number of the graceful little flyers were killed in this way by the hard-hearted youngsters. Their sport should have been interrupted, and if the law don't touch them, each should have received a sound horsewhipping.

Greeley and Brown Ward Clubs.

Meetings were held in the various Wards of the Eastern Department on Wednesday evening, and Greeley and Brown Clubs organized, as follows:

FIFTH WARD—P. J. Flynn, President; Edward Cashin, M. J. Barry, Patrick McGinnis, Wm. Trelease, Christian Lang, Vice Presidents; Patrick Hayden, Secretary; Patrick McGivney, Treasurer. Finance Committee—Patrick O'Reilly, Jr., Samuel Weiner, John Robinson. Executive Committee—John Larkin, M. J. Barry, Fred. Heybrook, John Schnitzler, Fred. Menger.

SIXTH WARD—A. A. Crosby, President; S. Conwell, W. L. Hasbrouck, Edward Cloonan, Wm. Reiser, Edward O'Reilly, Dr. A. Huhne, A. J. Mellon, Vice Presidents; D. C. McMillan, Recording Secretary; G. F. Stephan, Corresponding Secretary; S. D. Coykendall, Treasurer. Finance Committee—Wm. Hutton, F. J. Hecker, James L. Van Deusen, Wm. Bertsche, Philip Kelly. Executive Committee—Abram Crispell, L. Eppenstein, John Hussey, George Hauck, L. Dittus, Grove Webster, M. L. O'Sullivan.

A committee of five to procure uniforms was also appointed.

SEVENTH WARD—James G. Tubby, President; James McShane, Dominick Lynch, Jacob Walter, Jr., William Caddy, Vice Presidents; Henry Krieger, Recording Secretary; James Glennon, Corresponding Secretary; P. Sheridan, Treasurer. Finance Committee—John Quigley, J. P. Kline, Michael Flick. Executive Committee—James Flanagan, John Derrenbacher, Thomas J. Leonard.

We have not learned the names of the officers of the 3rd and 4th Ward Clubs.

The Excursion.

Owing to the rain on Wednesday the excursion of the Baptist Sunday school on board the Thomas Cornell was not so enjoyable an affair as was anticipated nor so largely patronized, although those who did go had a pleasant time, notwithstanding the rain, which came down without intermission during the entire trip. The boat went as far as New Baltimore, where she winded around and started for home, arriving at her wharf in this city at 4 P. M.

Tows.

Steamer Oswego to New York—boats Dreadnaught, M. E. Ritchey, M. Enderly, Midland, Sandy, M. H. Johnson, Wm. N. Beach, Anna, L. D. Gerrard, R. C. Taber, 16 loaded coal boats; Lackawanna to Haverstraw; Tanner to Hyde Park; Mary to Poughkeepsie.

Steamer Herald to Albany—Boats C. Tanner, May Kirkpatrick, J. Keeler, J. H. Roberts, New Hampshire, 1099, 909; Grant, Cora to Malden; A. Best to Stuyvesant.

Propeller H. R. Farrington to Newburgh—Boats 1363, J. Rowland; 45 to Poughkeepsie; 1035 to Fishkill; 561 to Cornwall; Boxer from Po'keepsie to Newburgh.

Steamers Norwich and Marshall—Boats Jno. Edgett, W. F. Burden, D. Lament, A. A. Tubbs, Del. & Hud. boats; barges Relief, First Effort; Ice-barge J. Parker; boats J. D. Decker, B. H. McShane from Haverstraw; Princess, R. H. Lockwood to Poughkeepsie; S. Morrell, J. Tracey, J. Shields to Hudson; schooner Laura Robinson to Saugerties.

Rochester Bonding Case.

The Rochester bonding case was argued and submitted at special term last Wednesday.

The Wallkill Valley Injunction.

In the injunction case of F. O. Norton agst. Wallkill Valley Railway, before Judge Learned, the motion to have the injunction granted restraining the company from performing certain acts continued to next special term was granted.

Attempt at Rape.

One day last week John Rose, more generally known as John Dope, met Sarah Jane Slater in the huckleberry woods at the Traps, and forthwith threw her down on the ground with the intention of violating her person. The young lady resisted with all her strength, clutching him by the hair, and yelling for help. This so alarmed him that he took to his heels and fled. The next day she made a complaint before Justice Merrihew, upon which "Dope" was arrested and put under bonds to await the action of the next Grand Jury.

Ellenville.

The Ellenville Journal says work will shortly be commenced on a new depot and freight building at that place, to cost about twelve thousand dollars.

Struck by Lightning.

The house of Mr. Nathaniel Lefever, near Rosendale, was struck by lightning on Monday evening, and was damaged to the extent of about $500 worth. The storm in that section was very severe, and we hear of other damage done by the wind, but have been unable to ascertain any particulars.

Opening a New Hall.

Conrad Schinnen, of Rosendale, will dedicate his new Village Hall and summer garden tomorrow (Friday) evening by a grand ball, for which every preparation has been made to make it an enjoyable occasion. A Poughkeepsie band will furnish the music, and the good-natured host will make merry in his accustomed style. The hall is 75 feet long, and will afford fine accommodations.

Family Jars.

On Friday last Martin Quick and his wife, who resides in Kerhonkson, had a quarrel after he had abused her until "patience ceased to be a virtue." During the evening of that day Martin removed all the furniture from the house, even taking most of his wife's clothing. After this demonstration of ill will on the part of her husband Mrs. Quick took their child, about three years old, and went to Port Jackson, where her friends reside. On Sunday night Quick went to the house in Port Jackson, and skulked about until all the inmates, except his wife and child, had left, when he rushed in and seizing the child endeavored to carry it off, but the mother clung to it until Quick, in pulling on the child, caused the mother to fall to the floor, when she released her grasp, and the father carried off the youngster. On Monday Mrs. Quick brought an action for assault against her husband before Justice Merrihew. Quick appeared, and had the choice of paying a fine of $25 or go to jail, but the tender hearted Justice informed the prisoner if he would "make up" with his wife and promise never to abuse her again he would remit the fine, whereupon the pair "kissed and made up," and now "every thing is lovely," &c.

A Row in a Meeting.

The people up in the Traps have had a first class sensation during their huckleberry labors, just for spice. Last Sunday, instead of going out in the woods for berries as was once the wont of that section, the good people, both male and female, went to the school house and held an old-fashioned Methodist meeting. During the exercises Charles Van Leuven told his experience, when he said, "Some may think I have no religion, but God knows best." On this Margaret Bush, an attending picker, broke out, "Charley, do you mean me? Old Mary Bunton, put your hand over your mouth. That lady from Stone Ridge is not from New York or Blackwell's Island." This greatly incensed the last named lady and her son, for some of the lady members of the family have been wayward sisters, and they did not like to be jeered over it. The result was Stephen Banton had Margaret, or Mag, arrested for disturbing the meeting. She was brought before Justice Merrihew, who held an examination which took from two o'clock on Monday afternoon until the same hour of the next morning. Solomon Wood appeared for the people, while L. B. Hasbrouck defended the sprightly dame. She was held for trial before a jury on Tuesday.

A Summer Trip.

Last Saturday evening a lot of "darkies" entered Matthew Vassar's barn and rolled his carriage into the street. They then harnessed the horses, and hitched them to the carriage, drove to Union Corners, or some other place, and had a regular spree. They returned before daylight, and unhitched the horses and put them back in the barn. They next washed the carriage and put that back in the barn, locked the doors and left. And now Mr. Vassar wants to know what policeman was on that beat that night. A very sensible inquiry. —Poughkeepsie Eagle.

A Reporter Sold.

The Troy Press says: Keith, the live-legged reporter of the Whig, was the victim of a grevious joke recently. He purchased a paper of prize smoking tobacco at Egolf's and carelessly left it on his desk at the Whig office. During his absence somebody opened the package and placed in it a written order for a meerschaum pipe valued at $5, or $3 in cash. On Keith's return he opened the tobacco, found the order and straightway penned a note to the manufacturers at New York, requesting them to forward $3 on the order, saying he had a sufficiency of meerschaum pipes and preferred the hard cash. And "Billy" is still waiting an answer.

Business at the "White Elephant."

The Athens branch railroad is doing a heavy freight business this season, and the immense dock is crowded with barges and steam tugs. The following freight was shipto New York from that dock on Friday last, which is about the daily average:

4,161 barrels of flour, 400 barrels of corn meal, 150 barrels of oat meal, 150 barrels of whiskey, 151 tierces of lard, 96 hogsheads of tobacco, 2,000 barrels of oil and a large quantity of other freight.

Things look very lively at the Athens depot, and even the croakers are forced to acknowledge that the "White Elephant" was not created in vain.—Hudson Register.

A Busy Barber and an Armless Artilleryman.

The correspondent of a New York paper has been visiting Highland Falls, and has picked up the following incidents in the course of its rambles: "Among the inhabitants not a few have been at some time or another connected with the government establishments at West Point. The village barber was seven years in the West Point band, where he played the cornet, French horn and other instruments, and then started a tonsorial establishment. He is, moreover, a music teacher, a dealer in canary birds, and leader of the choir at the Presbyterian Church; a busy genius truly.

Into his shop there entered this morning a man who came to return a New York paper in which he had been reading Conkling's Grant speech. He had no arms. Seven years ago, when there was a mania at the Point for trying all sorts of new fangled engines of warfare, a peculiar species of shell was undergoing experiment. A soldier carried it in his arms to place it in a mortar, and as it would not easily go into the aperture an idiot of a comrade sought to expedite matters by giving it a blow with a hammer. It instantly exploded, and a second after the unfortunate man who had been carrying it was armless. He survived, however, and now lives in the vicinity on a pension, which the sympathizing villagers have increased by their contributions."

An Independent Sheet.

The Hudson Daily Register thus vents its opinion on the political situation. We should judge it was "on the fence:"

In our judgment the Presidential contest is nothing more or less than a scrub-race for the spoils. Both factions make the same elevated professions, and so far as politics are involved it is only a choice of political leadership.—"Will you follow Greeley or Grant?" That's all there is of it. Don't try to make the dear people believe that the country is going to destruction if either Grant or Greeley should be elected. Nothing of the kind will happen. Keep your temper. Let us have a new era of civility and peace.

"Put up your bright swords,
For the dew will rust them."

We are on the eve of the good time coming, when the Gazette, the Republican, and the Star shall lie down together, and the Daily Register shall lead them.

Summer Visitors.

There are many new faces to be seen on the streets of upper Kingston this summer. Hundreds call at Hermance's for their meals each day before starting for the mountains. The people from the country who come to the city always go Hermance's, where they are supplied with whatever they may wish in the line of confectionery, &c. Our reporter says no one leaves Hermance's restaurant without a smile of pleasure on his face, so well are they pleased with the manner in which they are entertained by the gentlemanly proprietor. 41

OUR FREE PARLIAMENT.

"Careless and Reckless Driving."

In your issue of this morning you are unnecessarily severe in your reflections upon me.

The facts of the case are: That as I was about driving from Wall to John* street, two ladies and a child were at the crossing, when I held up for them to pass, after which as I passed on, the child suddenly turned back off the sidewalk and against my carriage and was knocked down, but not injured at all, much less being "nearly killed."

LOOK AT THE FIGURES!

183,000 Machines per annum.

Many new machine companies have had their rise and fall—their machines once popular now scarcely known—others have made radical changes in order to exist; while the Howe Machine Company have adhered to the opinion of "Elias Howe, Master of Mechanics" ("The machine is mechanically correct; does not change"), built addition after addition to their factory, and to-day cannot supply the demand, although turning out six hundred machines a day—just a machine a minute.

THE ELIAS HOWE, JR.
Sewing Machines

The Howe Machine Co.

FOR FAMILIES AND MANUFACTURES,

THE GREAT PRIZE:
EXPOSITION UNIVERSELLE, PARIS, 1867.
Awarded over eighty-two competitors

The Highest Premium,

THE ONLY CROSS OF THE LEGION OF HONOR AND GOLD MEDAL,

Given to American Sewing Machines, per Imperial Decree, published in the "Moniteur Universel" (Official Journal of the French Empire,) Tuesday, 2d July, 1867, in these words:

ELIAS HOWE, JR. { Fabricante de Machines a coudre exposant. Manufacturer of Sewing Machines, Exhibitor.

The Howe Sewing Machines

Are celebrated and known for doing the best work, using a straight and much smaller needle for the same thread than any other machine. They are adapted to any and all kinds of family sewing and manufacturing of every description, (from fine lace to patent leather,) making a beautiful and perfect Lock Stich, alike on both sides of the article sewed, and will neither rip nor ravel, and uses less thread.

Every machine is as near perfection as the best machinery in the world can make it. It is the oldest machine and has more improvements, and is nearer perfection than any other machine, the parts being exactly alike. If any of the parts need to be replaced, the operator can replace it, and it will outlast and outwear any machine made. They are remarkably simple and easily learned, sure in their operation, and almost impossible to break or get them out of order. They use any thread directly from the spool. The needle has a perpendicular motion, (absolutely necessary for heavy work,) runs easily, a fast sewer, and almost noiseless. They do not soil the dress of the operator, and do not have to be taken apart to oil and clean. The New Improved Family Machine cannot be surpassed and is without equal, and we CHALLENGE THE WORLD to produce a better machine on points of merit. A Hemmer, Feller, Gatherer, Braider, Quilter, Tucking Guide, and all the other necessary Tools go with each machine, free of charge.
